Celebrating Community

In the dead of winter, the church gives us God-sightings, gives them as if to persuade us that our world only appears solid, still, dark, and cold, but is in fact stirring all the time, ardent, vivid, and porous. As if to say that this stretch of predictability we call our daily life is really, as Barbara Brown Taylor puts it, a startling game of hide-and-seek with the divine. As if to say that heaven's flame burns hot here too, not just on the other side of Peter's gate.

STAR-GIVING

by Ann Weems

What I'd really like to give you for Christmas is a star...

Brilliance in a package, something you could keep in the pocket of your jeans or in the pocket of your being.
Something to take out in times of darkness, something that would never snuff out or tarnish, something you could hold in your hand,
something for wonderment,
something for pondering, something that would remind you of what Christmas has always meant: God's Advent Light into the darkness of this world.
But stars are only God's for giving, and I must be content to give you words and wishes and packages without stars.
But I can wish you life as radiant as the Star that announced the Christ Child's coming, and as filled with awe as the shepherds who stood beneath its light.
And I can pass on to you the love that has been given me, ignited countless times by others who have knelt in Bethlehem's light.
Perhaps, if you ask, God will give you a star.
