CAROLINE STAFFORD STEIN

Carolyn started attending TriCon when eldest daughter Lena—now 24—was just three. Daughters Audrey and Natalie followed Lena in making their way through Church School, Seekers, Youth Group, Confirmation, and Mission Trips. The girls are the light of her life, as they are for Carolyn's husband, Eric.

Carolyn and Eric met in their freshman year at Brown and moved together to Boston after college for law and medical school, respectively. With the exception of a short stay in the Bay Area (Eric still speaks wistfully of the Palo Alto weather), they have been in the area ever since, with the last 23 years in Carlisle. They did move houses within town six years ago, but managed to keep very nearby to Kimball's.

Carolyn served as a federal prosecutor at the US Attorney's Office and then spent more than 20 years at Harvard Law School in the Office of Public Interest Advising, advising students and alumni on careers in public service. Eric completed his residency at Mass Eye and Ear and is in a private practice in Chelmsford and Lowell. Carolyn recently left HLS to pursue new challenges, although she is still figuring out just exactly what they may be. Active in a number of area non-profits, Carolyn loves to read, walk, attend yoga classes, and travel. She and Eric took an amazing trip to Laos in February, but most of their travel of late has been to NJ, upstate NY, and Nashville to hear their girls sing in a cappella groups and college choirs and at "writers' rounds" for aspiring singer-songwriters.

At TriCon, Carolyn taught Church School all the many years her children were enrolled and now serves as Chair of the Safe Church Committee and as a new member of the Mission Committee. Carolyn believes their family has been blessed many times over by the loving community of faith they have found in TriCon.
