

Changed: One at a Time

SCRIPTURE: Acts 9:1-20

Introduction: Saul (who later becomes Paul) has been out to get, imprison, even kill, those who are following Jesus. But then he is blinded by a life-changing encounter with Jesus, and ends up being baptized by a brave Christian, Ananias. This whole encounter shows us that Saul needs a wider community of disciples to confirm his experience and help him move forward. Ananias discovers that God is capable of bringing blessings to and through even someone as cruel as Saul. Both men are called to something they never thought they'd do! But as we know, God is faithful and can accomplish things beyond our imagining!

Meanwhile, Saul was still breathing out murderous threats against the Lord's disciples. He went to the high priest and asked him for letters to the synagogues in Damascus, so that if he found any there who belonged to the Way, whether men or women, he might take them as prisoners to Jerusalem. As he neared Damascus on his journey, suddenly a light from heaven flashed around him. He fell to the ground and heard a voice say to him, "Saul, Saul, why do you persecute me?"

"Who are you, Lord?" Saul asked.

"I am Jesus, whom you are persecuting," he replied. "Now get up and go into the city, and you will be told what you must do."

The men traveling with Saul stood there speechless; they heard the sound but did not see anyone. Saul got up from the ground, but when he opened his eyes, he could see nothing. So, they led him by the hand into Damascus. For three days he was blind and did not eat or drink anything.

In Damascus there was a disciple named Ananias. The Lord called to him in a vision, "Ananias!"

"Yes, Lord," he answered.

The Lord told him, "Go to the house of Judas on Straight Street and ask for a man from Tarsus named Saul, for he is praying. In a vision he has seen a man named Ananias come and place his hands on him to restore his sight."

"Lord," Ananias answered, "I have heard many reports about this man and all the harm he has done to your holy people in Jerusalem. And he has come here with authority from the chief priests to arrest all who call on your name."

But the Lord said to Ananias, "Go! This man is my chosen instrument to proclaim my name to the Gentiles and their kings and to the people of Israel. I will show him how much he must suffer for my name."

Then Ananias went to the house and entered it. Placing his hands on Saul, he said, “Brother Saul, the Lord—Jesus, who appeared to you on the road as you were coming here—has sent me so that you may see again and be filled with the Holy Spirit.” Immediately, something like scales fell from Saul’s eyes, and he could see again. He got up and was baptized, and after taking some food, he regained his strength.

Saul spent several days with the disciples in Damascus. At once he began to preach in the synagogues that Jesus is the Son of God.

SERMON: Changed – One at a Time

Did you know that Mickey Rooney, the great actor, was married 8 times? Two of his wives died, and the other 5 were divorces. But he was married to his last wife, Jan, for 36 years until his death in 2014! In an interview, Mr. Rooney was asked what had happened, why his marriage to Jan was different, what had changed. He said this:

What changed? I gave my life to Christ. That changed everything. I had lived my life in chaos. I was a millionaire when I was a child. I participated in every form of lust and human degradation. Then 35 years ago, I gave my life to Christ, warts, bruises and all. That has made all the difference.

Amazing! I love stories like that. I’m sure you’ve heard similar stories through the years. A person’s life is a mess, they find Jesus and turn their life over to him, and they begin a “new life” altogether.

Our reading from Acts today shows us how God in Jesus can change us; and not just that, but God can also call us to do things we never would have dreamed we could do!

The first time we hear of Saul in the Bible is two chapters before this reading, where we find him holding the coats of his friends while they were stoning Stephen to death. And very quickly Saul moves from being a willing bystander to becoming an active persecutor of Christians.

And right before our story for today, we learn that Saul was ravaging the church, going house to house, he dragged off men and women and put them in prison. (8:3)

Saul is on a search-and-destroy mission and his target is Christians, who weren’t called Christians yet – they were followers of “the way.” And he’s certain that he is carrying out God’s will – remember he is a faithful Jew and high up in the hierarchy of Jewish elites. He is a theological authority, conducting investigations, holding court, helping to make Israel safe for God by removing these outliers who follow Jesus.

And then it happened. It was about noon when he was knocked flat by a blaze of light that must have made the sun look like a weak forty-watt light bulb, and out of the light came a voice that called him by his name twice. “Saul,” it said, and then again “Saul. Why are you out to get me?”

Today we call changes like this conversion. And here's what we learn from Saul's conversion: There is nothing that you can do to make it happen. It is what God does to you, in you, and for you. We are the recipients of God's grace and it changes us.

However, conversions take many shapes and forms...we won't all be knocked off our horses. Because God relates to us as individuals, conversion – being changed – will be unique and different for each person.

But here's what IS the same, no matter how we are converted: When Jesus comes to us, when God changes us, we will find ourselves doing things we could never have imagined. AND God will be with us every step of the way.

Consider Ananias. Nobody really remembers him. The Lord didn't blind him with a bright light. The Lord didn't change his name. As far as we know, the Lord didn't send him to faraway places where he would suffer floggings and imprisonments. The Lord did not give him an assignment to change his world so that our world would still be reverberating from the impact.

But the Lord did give Ananias an assignment to change the world for one person. And it's the same for us. You and I may never be asked to change the world, but we may be asked, from time to time, to change the world for one person.

Saul and Ananias couldn't have been more different. And they have two very different encounters with Jesus.

Isn't it interesting that God will come both to those who recognize his voice - Saul, and to those who don't - Ananias...to those who are walking the path of discipleship faithfully - Ananias, and to those who are resolutely walking the wrong way entirely - Saul.

If you think you have to get your act together before Jesus will consider calling upon you, think again. Sometimes it is actually Jesus' call that lets us know that we don't have our act together.

But know that, as followers of Jesus, He will continue to call upon us to change the world one person at a time for the rest of our lives. So, what does that call look like?

Well sometimes when the Lord calls us, He's calling us to wait.

When Jesus confronted Saul on the road to Damascus, he gave Saul this instruction: Get up and go into the city, and you will be told what you must do.

The men with Saul led him by the hand into the city, where for three days he could see nothing. He ate and drank nothing. He waited, and he prayed. During this time, he received a vision that a man named Ananias would come and place his hands on him to restore his sight. And he waited some more.

God had a tremendous task to set before Saul - be his premier evangelist, launching the first generation of churches - but his first task was to wait.

Other times, when the Lord calls, the next thing you have to do is go.

When the Lord gave Ananias his assignment, Ananias asked a big question: Lord, I have heard many reports about this man and all the harm he has done to your saints in Jerusalem. And he has come here with authority from the chief priests to arrest all who call on your name. Are you sure this is the man you want me to go see?

And the Lord responded with one instruction: “Go!”

You know, when God puts something before you, you always have a choice: yes or no. You always have this freedom. That said, sometimes it’s clear that you have to say ‘yes’ even when your insides are crying out in fear ‘no, no, no!’

Which was the case with Ananias. What he was being asked to do - to go heal Saul - would be like a Jewish Rabbi being asked to go heal Hitler. He was understandably concerned! But God said ‘go’ so he went.

Sometimes when the Lord calls, it will turn your life upside down and nothing will ever be the same again (Saul). Sometimes when the Lord calls, it is simply time to do your task and then to return to your life (Ananias). Either way, when the Lord calls, he often calls us to something we never could’ve imagined.

And as you know, not all conversions are sudden like Saul’s. While some are blessed with a sure and certain moment, others are blessed with a series of more subtle turns and affirmations of God’s grace in our lives.

Sudden blinding lights are rare and my guess is that most of us have experienced a series of conversions that have sustained us over time, rather than a once and sudden event.

If you ask me when my conversion took place...

It happened over the course of my childhood as I grew up year after year going to Sunday School week after week.

It happened when I was confirmed in the 10th grade and no longer HAD to go to church, but wanted to go anyway.

It happened in college when we had a family crisis and I left the faith only to see that it is God who sustains life and brings hope to hopeless situations.

It happened when I was 25 and realized one day that no matter what happened or where I went I would always be proud to be a Christian.

It happened a few years later when I was so sad that I stopped going to worship for several months confident that God was patient and that I’d feel His love again when I came through on the other side of my depression.

It happened when God granted me courage and strength to do something I never thought I could do.

I wonder what yours are...

But if you press me to give you a date and location of my conversion – I'd have to say this: on a hill outside Jerusalem, 2,000 years ago. Jesus' death and resurrection is what changed me, and continues to convert my heart daily from a selfish, inward focused life to a hopefully Christ-centered one.

After the sermon we will sing the beloved hymn, Amazing Grace written by John Newton. His story is interesting... Brought up in rough circumstances, Newton became the captain of slave trading ship. He drank hard, he worked hard, and he hated with a passion all things Christian, all things he saw as weak, and that would get in the way of his wild living.

But then after years of self-loathing and hating others, he had a moment on a ship, in the midst of a terrible storm, when he cried out to God and believed afterward that God heard him and saved them. From that moment on, he had an openness to the gospel and to God's leading in his life.

And while he celebrated the date of that storm, May 10, 1748, as the moment of his conversion, he also said this: I cannot consider myself to have been a believer in the full sense of the word, until a considerable time afterwards.

Sixteen years later he became a pastor in England and enjoyed many decades as a pastor and hymn writer.

But his tombstone really tells the story:

*John Newton, clerk, once an infidel and Libertine, a servant of slavers in Africa,
was, by the rich mercy of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, preserved, restored, pardoned, and appointed to preach the faith he had so long labored to destroy.*

When it was suggested he retire (at age eighty-two!) due to poor health and a failing memory, he responded, "My memory is nearly gone, but I remember two things: that I am a great sinner, and that Christ is a great savior!"

When the Lord comes to us, whether by stopping us in our tracks, or by nudging us toward a new direction, we are changed.

And when we are changed, so is the world around us - one person at a time.

Thanks be to God!
Amen.
